

“Lessons should spark curiosity and joy to create a love for learning in young students. I am committed to producing fun in preschool, while promoting a love for learning through play, exploration, and meaningful interactions.

Grounded in Christian values, my faith is central to who I am, and I bring it with me into the classroom. Foundational Christian values are presented in the classroom daily. Values of kindness, compassion, and empathy guide my students to grow not only academically but also spiritually.

I am a big believer in the importance of building strong partnerships with parents to support each child and holistic development, spiritually, intellectually, emotionally, and socially. I am dedicated to guiding the little ones entrusted to my care on their journey of discovery and growth.

With a long background in Early Childhood Education and a deep understanding of child development, I tailor my teaching approach to meet the unique needs of each child.”
